

MARRIED FOR MONEY.

Annie Ernest, a poor young school teacher, of New York City, committed the error of marrying for money. The old and wealthy Mr. Hargrave saw and desired her, and his money bought her. Tired of the drudgery and routine of her daily duties, and loving nobody else, she easily convinced herself that marriage with the old millionaire was the sure road to luxury and happiness. She had dazzling beauty of feature and complexion, and a fine, healthy, energized force in her composition that excited admiration, blinding one to her moral defects, and drawing one towards her by an irresistible influence like that of the moth to a candle, or a bird towards the jaws of a serpent.

The wedding tour comprised a short trip to Europe, and, upon their return, the ill-assorted pair went to a New England watering-place for the summer. Mr. Hargrave adored his young wife, Mr. Hargrave, enthralled by the sudden grandeur of the luxury which surrounded her, was wrapped in excited, unnatural pleasure.

One afternoon Annie stood upon the balcony and looked out seaward. The wind blew in with freshness on its wings and fluttered her pretty golden hair about her face. It touched her cheeks; they grew rosy and her eyes sparkled. The crisp, bracing air was as good as a draught of wine.

She walked down the path that led up to the beach and saw two men approaching. One was her husband, the other was a stranger. As they drew nearer the contrast between the two persons appeared. The one was a man of middle age, with a stern, almost unfavorable to the doughty millionaire, whose sixty years had left their traces upon face and figure. The other was a young, tall, straight and handsome—such a man as Annie had pictured as her ideal. As she gazed upon him a sudden repugnance to her husband's face came over her, and she turned away with a shudder.

Mr. Hargrave introduced the young man as "Philip Graham, the son of an old and respected friend."

"And I trust, Annie," he added, "that you may become good friends."

How little his injunction was needed! Subsequent events too truly proved. From the first moment of their meeting a sympathy of manner and conversation showed itself.

"I may, I hope, expect to see you at the ball to-night?" said Graham, as he pressed her hand at parting.

Annie had not intended to go, but she replied, "Yes, you will see me."

Two weeks of dancing, bathing, riding and picnics passed, and every day found Annie and Philip Graham more or less in each other's company. All but the doting husband and themselves saw peril in it. Finally the climax was reached. Philip avowed his love, and Annie realized the misery of the life which she had taken upon herself.

Annie Hargrave was not the sort of a woman to take uncomplainingly to an unhappy lot. Where others of her class would have crushed out the guilty love, she fed it by wild longings and vain regrets. Had Philip Graham proposed an elopement she would have gladly acquiesced; but he was too honorable or too cowardly for that, and she was too proud to broach such a subject. And so days of feverish excitement, pleasure and pain passed over the pair of lovers. How it was all to end neither questioned; but it did end by discovery.

Mr. Hargrave carefully shut the door one evening and sat down behind his wife. Graham had been obliged to go away for the night, and she was, consequently, dejected.

The McCarthy-Dixon Match at Last Arranged.

A Lot of Fighters Coming Out of Their Holes This Winter.

Cal McCarthy was on hand yesterday afternoon with Joe Easley, his backer. Dixon did not appear, but his manager, Tom O'Rourke, was on hand, and he looked after his interest in great shape, and the match was made practically according to the conditions outlined in yesterday's EVENING WORLD. There will be twenty-five rounds with four-ounce gloves, and the men will weigh in at 145 pounds, give or take a pound, six hours before sparring.

The agreement as to the division of the purse was that the winner take $5,500 and the loser $200. The gloves are to be furnished by the Puritan Club, and neither side is to see them until they are thrown into the ring.

Billy Dacey is anxious to meet Austin Gibbons, but it is not known yet whether the Patterson boy is altogether willing to meet Dacey. Independent of his two defeats by Cummings, Jack Dempsey and Jack McAuliffe, Dacey has won over thirty battles. Dacey signed the articles yesterday, which leave nothing left for Gibbons to do but to follow suit or show the white feather.

There seems to be two or three managers of the pound men who are looking for a match with Tommy Kelly, the Harlem spider, but none of them are able to put up the money offered by the backers of young Murphy Flaherty.

From all accounts Johnny Heagan would not object in the least to meet Paddy Gorman, the Australian middle-weight.

The National Athletic Club, of Brooklyn, anticipate having a lively time to-night at their annual election of officers. There are two tickets and two factions in the club.

Mr. John B. Day, of the New York Baseball Club, is becoming one of the cracks in bowling circles. In addition to being a member of the Crescent Club he belongs to the "Ours," and at the last bowling of the Club he bowled 93.

Cal McCarthy went up to Miner's Eighth Avenue Theatre last night to see Dixon spar with Williams, and while there referred to Jack Dempsey does not seem to be doing the necessary training to get in perfect condition to meet Fitzsimmons. The latter is said to be a good one, and although it is now within one month of the time for fighting Dempsey has not shown up at his training quarters.

There will be a quiet affair in the shape of a stag racket on Monday night at the rooms of the Scottish Athletic Club.

Fighters seem to be coming out of their holes with the cold weather. A number of Irish fights have been arranged, and now Lou White is out with a challenge to Marty Flaherty, the clever young fighter from Boston.

It will not be for the lack of energy if the New York Athletic Club fail to turn out a crack cross-country team.

The brilliant style in which Jake Schaefer played billiards in Boston last night is attracting much attention among the sporting men of this city. He made a run of 400 points in five innings, thus—4, 20, 16, 203, 92.

The work of getting rid of the four Players' League clubs which still remain in existence will, no doubt, be accomplished before Jan. 1.

The two Brooklyn clubs are on the verge of consolidating. The Philadelphia Players' League will in all probability secure the franchises of the American Association club of that city, while it is thought that the two Cleveland

FROM THE WORLD OF LABOR.

The Organizers at Plunkett's Shop are on Strike for an Increase to $3 per Day.

The Labor Bureau of the United Machinists is now at 201 East 14th street.

The strikers in Fletcher's machine shop, Hoboken, are on strike for an increase to $3 per day. It is the justice of the cause, not the belligerent attitude of the strikers that is the issue.

The State Convention of the Socialist section of New Jersey will take place at Newark on Jan. 10. The strikers in Fletcher's machine shop, Hoboken, are on strike for an increase to $3 per day.

The Williamsburg section of the Socialist Labor party will elect an Executive Board on Dec. 10.

The greatest drawback in the way of advancement of the laboring people is not outside but inside their own ranks.

The painters of Cooper's Union No. 1 will be dedicated to-morrow evening in Apollo Hall, 475 Ninth avenue.

At the local municipal election in Hingham, near Boston, the entire ticket of the Socialist party was elected.

Many New England manufacturers are adopting the practice of paying their workmen a bonus to stay away from labor organizations.

The drivers of New York City taxicabs are about to form a labor organization. It will be called the New York City Drivers' Protective Association.

James H. McLaughlin, President of Local Union No. 221, of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, has been injured by an accident while at work.

The journalists of England are organizing a protective union for the purpose of securing better pay and improved conditions. The movement originated in Birmingham.

The Executive Committee of the New Jersey Federation of Trades will meet this month to consider the bill to be submitted during the next session of the Legislature.

The agitation of the San Francisco Harbor's dock strike has been somewhat quiet. As at present, when the clock strikes 12 at night the dockers do not leave their quarters and homes.

Progressive Musical Union No. 1, of New Jersey, will give its first annual concert at 11 o'clock at the Casino, Spring and Schippen streets, West Hoboken, next Sunday.

Factory Inspector Ogan, of New Jersey, is a member of a law requiring children to pass an examination in reading, writing and arithmetic before being allowed to start away from their organizations.

The capitalists are abolishing competition among themselves by creating trusts and monopolies, and the producers of wealth continue competing with each other by starting away from their organizations.

Important Kindergarten Meeting.

A Public Meeting of the New York Kindergarten Association, to be held in Lenox Lyceum building at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The meeting of the New York Kindergarten Association, to be held in Lenox Lyceum building at 4 o'clock this afternoon, will be addressed by President Seth Low, Prof. Macauliffe of Polytechnic, Dr. Hester Newton, Dr. Winchester Donald and Prof. Butler. Richard Watson Under is President of the society.

No Man's Land.

Tom Tipler (after a Christmas dinner)—Good gracious! Where am I? Where have I been? I've seen all sorts of strange things—ghosts, goblins, apes and gnomes—and what are you staring at me for?

"A. Tipler—I was thinking what a looking creature you are after being in gnomes man's land."

Not a Warm Color.

"I don't think this new color you have on your house is as warm as the old one."

"Well, how could it be? The old one has just had four new coats put on it."

Reasonable Doubt.

Blunkinsop—Don't fret, my boy, Santa Claus won't forget you.

Tommy Blunkinsop—That's all right, dad; I ain't afraid he'll forget the tin whistle I asked for, but I can't help being a little nervous about his forgetting the bicycle and the watch and chain.

An Unkind Reply.

Mrs. McCorkle—Christmas is almost here, and I can't think of anything to give my husband.

Mrs. McCorkle—Why not give him what you give him every other day?

Mrs. McCorkle—What's that?

Mrs. McCorkle—A piece of your mind.

Mrs. Winkler's soothing balm for children teething rests the child and comforts the mother.

MISLEADING QUESTIONS.

How a Landlord Was Very Funny at His Guest's Expense.

In a small town in Illinois is a good-natured old Benfance, who had heard of the eccentric individual who, when at the dinner table, was asked if he could reach the potatoes, and reaching out towards the dish replied "Oh, yes, easily," and undisturbed continued to eat. The story evidently amused this landlord, and he resolved to put the idea into practice in a new form, says the Chicago Herald.

As his customers came at all hours of the day or night the landlord had acquired the habit of sleeping in the hotel office. One cold night the landlord was awakened by a loud knocking at his door.

"Ask a who was there," he was answered in a hoarse voice by the caller. "Can you hear me?" To this the landlord at once said, "Of course you can," but he made no move to get up.

Several minutes passed, and again there came the query in still more hoarse tones, accompanied by a loud pounding. "Can I stay here all night?"

"Why, of course you can if you keep quiet." Again there was a pause, and nothing but the shrieking of the wind and the snow drifting against the window panes were heard.

Then came another vigorous hammering and a voice inquired, "Why don't you let me in?" At this the old man got up and opened the door, saying, "Did you want to come in? Why in the world didn't you say so and not stand out there all night freezing and keeping me awake?"
